POLICE BENCH IS CYNOSURE OF ALL POLITICAL EYES

Dave Cross Will Make Fight to Retain Post, He Says

Several Other Aspirants For Judgeship.

THOSE WHO ARE MENTIONED

Fires have been kindled under the political pot for the Democratic nomination of police judge, and in a few weeks it is expected that the pot will be boiling over. No date for a convention or primary has been set, but some steps will be taken in the near future. Whether a primary will be held, will depend upon the number of candidates that will hop into the ring.

So far only one man has announced definitely that he will be in the fight, and that is Judge D. A. Cross, who is serving the unexpired term of the late Judge David Sanders. Several others are "in the hands of friends" with prospects that there will be four candidates at the least.

Attorney Oscar Kahn has been mentioned for the place, and he readily admits that he is considering making the race, but has not reached any definite conclusion. However, his friends say he will make the race. Eugene Graves was prominently mentioned as an opponent for Cross, but Mr. Graves has ended the boom by saying that he would rather go to the legislature than take the police court bench.

Attorney M. E. Gilbert is considering making the race. It is believed that Gilbert will be in the race. Another prospective candidate is Attorney George C. Duguid, who, it is said, will enter the race if a primary is held, but will decline to run if a convention is used to select the nominee. Duguid has a strength that is underestimated. Several years ago he made the race against Judge Sanders and secured nearly 300 votes.

Mayor Yelverton appointed Judge E. H. Puryear to the office instead of Cross, who was advanced by a few party leaders. A hot fight was made in the primary and Cross won the office for the unexpired term of Judge Sanders.

In Circuit Court.

Judgment in the case of D. E. Wilson, et al., against the city of Paducah was set aside this morning in circuit court by Judge Reed, and a temporary restraining order to prevent the city from collecting licenses was granted. The order will be dissolved Monday, and an appeal on the case will be taken Monday by the attorneys for the merchants. The action was taken this morning to eliminate any trouble in carrying the case to the court of appeals.

Attorneys for Ed Hubbard filed motion in circuit court to make Robert Hicks show cause why he could not turn over the office of city license inspector to Hubbard, who won out in circuit court. Judge Reed set next Tuesday for the hearing of the motion. In the trial of the case Judge Reed decided that Hubbard was regularly elected by the general council, but the office has never formally been turned over to Hubbard by Hicks.

FORMER PRES. CASTRO WILL NOT GO TO VENEZUELA

Dresden, March 19.—Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, has given up the idea of going direct to La Guaira. He will leave the steamer Guadeloupe, on which he will sail March 26 from Bordeaux, at Port of Spain, Trinidad, where he will take up his residence temporarily at least.

At Port of Spain he will await news from his friends in Venezuela and will then determine what his course shall be. Castro yielded reluctantly to the persuasions of his wife, sister and brother, not to land at LaGuaira.

Castro had prepared a proclamation to the people of Venezuela, in which he recognized the Gomez government. He had intended to distribute this, which also announced that it was his purpose to live quietly in the country.

But when he learned that indictments had been found against him, he tore the document up. He has received many letters from Venezuela describing the distrust and fear entertained by the writers of those in power and expressing concern over Castro's personal safety.

House Begins Consideration of Payne Tariff Bill and Goes Into Committee of Whole for Reading

First Bill Passed Provides for Taking Census Under Civil Service Regulations--Roosevelt Wins Victory By Veto.

Washington, March 19.—The house today began formal consideration of the tariff bill. Chairman Payne moved that the house go into committee of the whole. It was carried. Then the clerk started the four-hour task of reading the bill.

Civil Service in Census.
Washington, March 19.—The first piece of legislation to be acted on by the house during the special session was the bill providing for the taking of the thirteenth census, which was passed in its present form, the measure giving to the civil service commission jurisdiction over the appointments and provides for the printing of reports by the government printing office. As enacted at the last session the bill stripped the civil service commission of such authority, and there was a provision allowing some of the printing to be done by private firms, because of which President Roosevelt vetoed it. Further amendment was made whereby appointments are to be apportioned pro rata among the states.

Funeral of B. B. Linn.

The funeral service of Mr. B. B. Linn will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at the residence, Fifth and Madison streets. The Rev. S. B. Moore, pastor of the First Christian church, will officiate. Immediately after the funeral service the remains will be taken to Murray and the burial will be in the family cemetery.

Four Children Burn.

Bristow, Okla., March 19.—Four children of M. C. Palmer, near Newby, Okla., were burned to death in a prairie fire which destroyed the family residence. Palmer, his wife and one son escaped.

Insurgents Surrender.

Havana, March 19.—Sergeant Cortes, leader of the insurgents, and his whole band surrendered to the civil authorities of Remedios, Santa Clara province.

Murder Plot Failed.

The last plans for Tag Day

MAY CONSOLIDATE PROPOSED LINES SOUTH FROM CITY

Mr. W. E. Aton, of Millburn, Ky., one of the promoters of the proposed interurban from Paducah to Mayfield, Arlington and Cairo, met with some directors of the Commercial club, and business men this morning, and after hearing his proposition, he was advised to consult with Mr. H. H. Lovins, who, with other Paducah men is interested in an interurban from Paducah to Mayfield, thence on to Hickman, with the view of consolidating the two propositions. Mr. Aton and Mr. Lovins are to meet this afternoon.

Paducah to Cairo.

A general meeting is being held this afternoon, of business and professional men, to consider the proposition of J. J. Freundlich, and associates, that Paducah subscribe to $50,000 of the bonds of the Paducah & Cairo Interurban.

AUSTRIAN MINISTER TO SERBIA REPORTED KILLED

London, March 19.—Dispatches from Berlin state that the Lokai Anzeiger publishes a report that Count Forgach, Austro-Hungarian minister to Serbia, has been assassinated. Nothing confirmatory is obtainable here.

NAVAL SCARE REVIVED.

By Stories That England May Buy Dreadnoughts.

London, March 19.—The naval scare in England has been revived by rumors that the British government is considering the purchase of three warships of the Dreadnought type now being built in England for Brazil. The government has an option on taking over these vessels, but in view of the emphatic statements of the ministers that the proposed estimates are sufficient to meet contingencies, it is doubtful that it will exercise this right unless unexpected developments should occur.

No Hope For Read

Washington, March 19.—Little hope is held out today for the recovery of Lieutenant Read, executive officer of the president's yacht Mayflower and naval aide to the president. He was severely hurt yesterday when thrown from his horse in Rock Creek park. He has been unconscious since the accident.

DEPARTMENT PLAN IS SATISFACTORY TO AUTHORITIES

Nearly all of the school officials are opposed to any proposed plan of the school board to scatter the seventh and eighth grades, and discontinuing the departmental work at the Washington school. Superintendent J. A. Carnegie is heartily in favor of the departmental work, although he has not said so in the words, but when his opinion is asked it is certain to be in favor of a continuation of the departmental work. He has secured statistics of the school population, and says that four-fifths of the school children, eligible to the seventh and eighth grades, would attend the Washington school anyhow, according to the present school boundaries.

Prof. W. H. Suggs, principal of the High school, is looking with disfavor upon any plan that may break up the departmental instruction, as he says the children are better prepared to enter the High school than when instruction in the departmental grades is secured from different teachers in different schools. The strong points of the departmental work are that the teacher in each subject is a specialist and can prepare the discussion better than when a teacher has to prepare several lessons on entirely different subjects.

Powder Trust Case

Washington, March 19.—The government's side in the suit to complete the dissolution of the powder trust must be completed by March 24, at which time Commissioner Mahaffey will resume his sitting at Wilmington. It is expected the defense will begin its testimony then.

Barn is Struck

A barn, belonging to Mr. W. A. Humphreys, eight miles west of the city on the Hinkleville road, was struck by lightning this morning at 8 o'clock. A fire followed and the barn with its contents of baled hay and straw, was destroyed in a few minutes. Mr. Humphreys' loss will amount to several hundred dollars. There was a heavy hail storm during the electrical storm west of the city this morning.

IGNORANCE CAUSE OF ITALIAN BLACK HAND SOCIETIES

Says King Victor, Who Asks Morgan to Educate Italians in America.

Consul is Warned That He is in Danger.

FUNERAL OF THE DETECTIVE

Rome, March 19.—King Victor today received J. P. Morgan and asked the assistance of the financier in wiping out the black hand and other criminal societies by education. Victor believes the principal cause for the criminal Italian is ignorance. He thinks a chain of schools in the Italian colonies in America under control of the Italian ambassador at Washington would solve the problem.

Palermo, March 19.—Memorial services in honor of Petrosino were held here today. A large crowd attended and a demonstration followed the denunciation of criminals who assassinated the detective. After the services the body was sent to Naples for shipment to America.

U. S. Consul Threatened.

Palermo, March 19.—American Consul Bishop has received letters threatening his life and declaring that the Mafia will punish him even worse than it did Petrosino if he continues to persecute Sicilian criminals who wish to find refuge in New York, or if he continues to excite the Italian police and judicial authorities to molest persons suspected of complicity in the plot against Petrosino. Bishop, notwithstanding the threats, handed the letters to the police, who took immediate steps to protect his person and the American consulate.

Vigorous Search Urged.

Rome, March 19.—The Italian government has sent a telegraphic communication to the authorities of a large number of cities requesting that a vigorous search be instituted for the murderers of Lieutenant Petrosino, or their accomplices. Especial vigilance is being observed in Constantinople, Tunis, Marseilles, Malta and parts of Egypt, while detectives have been sent to places where the Mafia is known to have many adherents.

Baptist Sunday School Meets.

Most of the 32 churches of the West Union Baptist association are represented at the Sunday school meeting at the Second Baptist church. Prof. A. B. Rouse is presiding.

Fugitive is Caught.

Arthur Harris, colored, was arrested this morning by Patrolmen Owen and Vlek on a charge of housebreaking. Harris is wanted at La Center for breaking into a store and escaped. He was found wandering around the streets near Tenth and Finley streets. He will be held by the police until a Ballard county official arrives to take him back to La Center.

Sharp Acquitted and Jury Ordered to Agree as to Both the Coopers in Prosecution For Carmack Murder

Jury Announced Ready to Report When Court Convened This Morning But it Was Noon Before Attys Arrived

THEY MET.

A small wreck occurred yesterday afternoon at Edgettown at the Louisville & Nashville and Tennessee Central R. R. crossing. One car of the Tennessee Central train was badly damaged. There is only one freight train a day on each road. It just happened, so the train men say, that the two trains met at the crossing and neither engineer could get the air brakes to work.

Nashville, March 19.—After being out since Wednesday the jury in the Cooper trial reported at 12:35 today a verdict of acquittal of John Sharp and a disagreement as to both the Coopers. The trial has been one of the hardest fought in the history of the south. The court dismissed Sharp and sent the jury back for further consideration of the case against the Coopers.

Carmack was killed by Robin Cooper November 9. The tragedy was the outcome of political strife engendered in the Democratic party of Tennessee during the closing days of Carmack's senatorial term. Cooper, a former close friend of Carmack espoused the cause of Carmack because candidate for governor Taylor for senator, he being elected, error against Patterson, who with Cooper was his foe in the senatorship fight. Carmack was defeated after a fight waged on the basis of statewide prohibition.

He started the fight to force a prohibition bill through the legislature, mentioning Cooper by name in editorials in his paper, the Nashville Tennessean. Bad blood followed resulting in Carmack's death.

Ready at Nine.

Nashville, March 19.—At 9 this morning Cooper jury sent word to Judge Hart they wished to be brought into court when it convened. Attorneys were not present and were sent for.

Strike Spreads

Paris, March 19.—France today is facing a general strike of the entire postal service. Electricians and railroad employees also are threatening to leave work. A strong force of troops is held in readiness to suppress disorder, but so far there have been no disturbances. The government is using an army of telegraphers to move most of the important official business.

New York, March 19.—President Taft, accompanied by an escort of secret service men, left this morning for New Haven, where he will attend a meeting of the Yale corporation. He will return to New York tonight.

Suits Filed in County Court.
Four suits for delinquent state licenses were filed this morning in county court by W. M. Husbands, state revenue agent for the county. S. B. Gott is sued for $400, alleged due for a state liquor license from June 22, 1907, to present date. Another suit was against John Dicke for alleged failure to take out a state license since May 18, 1908, and $200 is sued for. G. W. Edwards, it is alleged, owes the state $400 for failure to take out a license from April 22, 1907, and James Segenfelder, it is alleged, failed to secure a druggist's license to retail liquor. In addition to the sum sued for Agent Husbands sues for 20 per cent penalty.

Search Ruins

New York, March 19.—Firemen made a second search of the ruins of the Fifth avenue apartment house, that burned last night, on the belief that the Rev. Penner Simpson met his death there. His wife is in a hospital suffering with burns and said the minister was in the rooms when the fire started. A search showed the body was not there. It is believed he has been cared for by some one in the neighborhood. The house was next to the fashionable Plaza hotel and guests were frightened by the clouds of smoke.

Caught in Trap When Attempt Is Made to Rob Basement.

Cairo, Ill., March 19.—Eddie Jackson, a 13-year-old negro boy, is at St. Mary's infirmary suffering from a serious bullet wound in his stomach which he received last night while in company with two other boys who attempted to steal some empty beer bottles in the basement of Nicholas & Stegg's restaurant at 213 Ohio street. The other two negroes are about the same age as the victim. One of them, James Young, was captured by Sergeant Cowell, but the third escaped. The basement was robbed several nights ago of about five cases of empty beer bottles and a trap had been set for the guilty parties if they returned. The three young negroes were caught in the trap about 9 o'clock last night and the Jackson boy was shot as stated. The police were unable to learn who did the shooting.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF FROM INDIGESTION

All Stomach Misery and Dyspepsia Goes in Five Minutes.

Recent hospital reports show that the dread disease, rheumatism, is steadily increasing throughout the country. All known means of relief are being suggested to save the great amount of suffering this winter, especially among those who are not in a position to pack up and visit the noted health resorts to be treated. Recent tests prove rheumatism not exactly a disease in itself, but a severe symptom of kidney trouble, a condition caused by clogged up pores of the eliminative tissues in the kidneys which fail to filter the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, permitting these substances to remain in the veins and decompose, usually settling about the joints and muscles, causing the intense pain, swelling and stiffness of rheumatism.

The following simple home treatment will cure Rheumatism and is harmless and inexpensive, and so simple that anybody can mix it at home.

The ingredients are: Fluid extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Go to any good prescription pharmacy and get these three harmless ingredients and mix them by shaking in a bottle, taking as a dose a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is nothing better in the world for backache, kidney and bladder trouble, too. Such symptoms as frequent and painful urination, soreness, weakness, general and nervous debility are caused by certain acids and poisonous waste matter, decayed tissue, etc., in the blood, which the kidneys will clear and purify after a few doses of this prescription.

BASKETBALL

GAMES TONIGHT WILL BE BEST OF SEASON.

D. A. D.'s Will Go Against Chess, Checker and Whist Club for a Game.

Tonight's basketball games will be the best of the season, for it will be the last chance the D. A. D. team will get to defeat the strong C. C. & W. five, and the last time the Elks and the K. of C. teams will clash this season. The four teams that are to play tonight are the leaders of the city league. The first game of the double-header will be called at 8:15 o'clock at the Eagles' gymnasium hall Sixth street and Broadway. The different teams will have a bunch of rooters to help win the game, and from all the talk things will be carried on at a lively rate.

FIRE CHIEF GIVEN NO CONSIDERATION

Recommendations as to Oil Tanks Not Heeded.

Aldermen Refuse to Drive Oil Out of City and Precautions Are Flouted.

THE LICENSE INSPECTOR CASE.

In quick order the ordinance that it has taken months to get before either one of the boards of the general council, the Standard Oil ordinance, was voted down by a unanimous vote of the aldermen present. The ordinance was read by Alderman Sherrill and he moved that it be put on its first passage. The motion was seconded by Alderman Oehlschlaeger. The ordinance provided against the storage of oil in the city limits and fixed the fine for its violation. Before the vote was taken Alderman Oehlschlaeger called on Fire Chief Wood to explain the condition of the present location and the danger of having the Standard Oil company's tanks located in the city limits.

Chief Wood said he considered that the Standard Oil property is dangerous in its present condition and especially the gasoline tanks. He recommended for its safety that a brick or concrete wall be built around the tanks and extend three feet above them, and that all the floors be made of concrete and the tanks be steel.

Mr. Harry McGowan, a representative of the Standard Oil company from Louisville, was heard. Mr. McGowan stated that at no time during the history of the Standard Oil company has there been a fire of Standard Oil property that destroyed other property than theirs with it. There is no record of such a fire. He also said that he thinks that Chief Wood's precaution is not necessary, because the Standard Oil company handles the oil every day and know more about it than any one else; but the company is willing to abide by whatever action is taken by the general council of this city. He thought that the building of the walls and putting in concrete floors was an unnecessary expense.

Alderman Oehlschlaeger moved to table the motion, seconded by Alderman Lackey. The motion to table was lost on the following vote: Yeas: Hank, Lackey, Oehlschlaeger; nays: Hannan, Durrett, Potter and Sherrill.

On motion to give the ordinance first passage the vote was seven nays. Alderman Stewart was late in arriving.

Tax Levy.

An ordinance fixing the levy for taxation of property in this city and the poll tax was given first passage in the regular meeting of the aldermen and second passage in a called meeting of the council, at which all the members were present, and was then given second passage in a called meeting of the aldermen. The tax rate was fixed at $1.85 on every $100 valuation of real and personal property and a poll tax of $1.50 on every male person over 21 years of age.

The report of the joint finance committee, recommending allowance and payment of $5,919.85, was accepted by the aldermen.

Before the minutes of the late regular meeting were adopted, the aldermen reconsidered the action taken in refusing to refund to Mr. May $50 which he paid as license to carry on insurance business, and the action of the lower board to donate Mr. May $50 out of the contingent fund was concurred in.

Alderman Potter introduced a resolution that colored nurses be employed at the city hospital to take care of the colored patients. This question had been before the board but no action was ever taken on it. The motion was adopted by a vote of six yeas and one nay. Yeas: Hannan, Durrett, Hank, Lackey, Potter and Sherrill. Nays: Oehlschlaeger.

License Inspector.

Another question brought up by Alderman Potter under the head of new business, was how is the city to decide the tangle of who is license inspector? He read an ordinance that he had drawn up, repealing the ordinance that created the office of license inspector. The ordinance was referred to the ordinance committee. City Treasurer George Walters said that the absence of a license inspector was losing the city thousands of dollars.

The request of property owners along Clay street between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets was referred to the water company. The request of property owners in the neighborhood of Sixth street and McKinley avenue to have a light put on that corner was referred to the board of public works.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

The public improvement committee recommended that a fence be built around the Jackson Hill cemetery. This action was ratified by the aldermen.

The public improvement committee and the city engineer were instructed to furnish estimates of the cost of tiling the ditch on the south side of Oak Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Bertha Husbands was granted a request for a transfer of a lot in Oak Grove from Mrs. D. A. Maxwell. On a motion of Alderman Hank, seconded by Alderman Sherrill, the ordinance committee was instructed to bring in an ordinance providing for the grading and graveling of an alley between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, from Broadway to Jefferson street.

On motion of Alderman Lackey a rule was adopted to have all new ordinances sent to the members of the board three days before the ordinance came up in the meeting.

On a request of City Engineer L. A. Washington the board gave 30 feet of ground along the west side of Jackson cemetery to be used for street purposes. The property owners have agreed to give 30 feet and a 60 foot street will be opened immediately.

An Expert Accountant.

[Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure.]

Jansen and Jansen were manufacturers of women's wear, and when Miss Willoughby, from the west, called upon them they gave her encouragement. Not until the senior partner had done a little thinking, however. Her statement that she was an expert accountant and that her charge for overhauling the books would be very moderate seemed to give him an idea. He thought over it for a week and then wrote her he would call. An hour after he had written he invaded the den of the old bookkeeper, and after fussing around for five minutes he got up the courage to remark:

"Stephen, do you know that this firm has been systematically robbed for the last ten years?"

"Impossible!" gasped the old man as he looked up.

"Craftily and systematically robbed, sir, and the loss will foot up thousands of dollars."

"Is it the shipping clerks—the salesmen? I don't see how they could have robbed us."

"It is nearer than that," said the senior partner as he looked the perturbed and trembling girl in the eye. "My God, but you can't suspect me! You can't believe that I ever touched a penny of your money!"

"Who else is there to suspect? You have had sole charge of the books."

"This is horrible."

"I am sorry for you. I must leave you, for other matters are awaiting attention."

Half an hour later the old bookkeeper left his employer and went out without a ray of hope in his heart.

Miss Willoughby scarcely hoped for a call from Mr. Jansen that evening, but he presented himself nevertheless. It had been discovered, he explained without emotion, that the bookkeeper had been robbing the firm. His calculations would probably amount to thousands of dollars. He had run away and might escape arrest, but she was to go ahead on the books just the same. Her salary would be $20 a week, and of course her relations with the firm would be confidential. She could depend upon them to recommend her to others in case her work was well done. The girl wondered that the partner was so quiet over the reported loss; but, thinking it was his way, she promised to appear at the store in the morning and begin on the books. When morning came and when she was within a block of the store she encountered an old gray-haired man with such a look of trouble on his face as caught her attention at once. He blocked her way and halted her and tried to say something, but choked up, raised his hands in despair and stepped aside.

"Why, that is the old bookkeeper I saw at the store the other day through the partition!" she exclaimed as she turned to look after him. "Can it be his books I am to overhaul? I can't believe that he has been robbing the firm."

Stephen Cato, the old bookkeeper, had been neat and accurate and painstaking. When the first day had come to a close the girl expert failed to find the slightest cause for suspicion. She so reported, and, with a frown, the senior partner replied:

"But you must remember, that Stephen was sly and crafty," he replied. "Don't be deceived. You claim to be an expert, and you must sooner or later come upon the evidences of his guilt."

Nothing was discovered on the second day—the third—nothing during the whole week. Miss Willoughby's reputation as an expert was at stake, but not the slightest flaw could she find. If there had been robberies no attempt had been made to cover them up by false entries.

"But you will make discoveries next week," said Mr. Jansen as she reported and he handed her her salary. "Perhaps you have not taken his craftiness into account. We have lost at least $10,000 by him, and as an expert accountant you shall expect you to uncover his system. Another week must surely bring you the clue."

When another week had passed nothing whatever had been found to convict Stephen Cato. He had been honest to a penny. The girl was glad to so report. His troubled face had haunted her ever since the first morning, and the senior partner's insistence had bred a suspicion in her mind.

"Miss Willoughby," replied Mr. Jansen when she had reported, "we employed you as an expert accountant. Our loss is $10,000. Our late bookkeeper is a fugitive from justice. You have done your work well. Here is $500 over and above your salary, and we shall be glad to recommend you to any other house. In such affairs as this one of course is expected to keep silence."

The girl looked at him for a moment with a puzzled expression on her face. Then it began to be plain that there was something wrong. The firm wanted to make out a loss when there was no loss. It had reasons for calling an honest man a thief. She slowly picked up the amount due her as salary for the week, and, stepping back, she looked the man square in the eyes and said:

"Mr. Jansen, you are a scoundrel!"

"And you are a little fool!" he answered as she swept out of the office.

In Newark bay two days later they found a floater. He was an old man. Nothing was found on his person to identify him, and no one came to look at the body as it lay in the morgue. Potter's field gave a resting place to the body. The old bookkeeper was through with man's inhumanity to man. The girl from the west had just begun to experience it. M. QUAD.

TWO NAVY YARDS ARE OPEN AGAIN

New Orleans and Pensacola to Get Graft.

Rural Route Mail Carrier Tells His Troubles to Department at Washington.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

Washington, March 19.—Almost the first official act of Secretary Meyer, of the navy department, was to suspend his predecessor's order, closing the navy yards at Pensacola and New Orleans which had been decried against by critics as useless.

His action in this matter, which was taken upon representations of the senators from Florida and Louisiana, is regarded in two ways. His enemies say he will be a reactionary and stand for the re-organization of the navy just so long as it does not interfere with the spending of money in the districts of various congressmen. His friends say that he is anxious for a bigger navy, and that he recognizes that he can't get it if he antagonizes congress at the start.

Meyer made a good record while postmaster-general. He advocated in and out of season a parcels post and a postal savings bank. He established better postal relations with nearly every foreign power, and domestic rates with Great Britain and Germany. He established late city deliveries in all the big cities. He established sea postoffices on most of the trans-Atlantic liners. He improved the money order service, and affected savings amounting to the millions in the administration of the department.

Rural Carrier's Troubles. "The vicissitudes of the life of a rural carrier" might be the title of a recent letter received at the post-office department describing the experiences of J. A. Trentham, of Curtis, Oklahoma.

On a recent occasion, while serving his route, his vehicle was upset by a violent wind storm. After righting it, he proceeded a little way further when it was again overturned by the wind. This time his mail matter was scattered over the surrounding country. He recovered most of the mail and proceeded again on his route, only to have his passage obstructed by a raging prairie fire which compelled him to cut a wire fence and flee into a plowed field in order to save his life and equipment.

Trentham's troubles are ascribed by some folks to the fact that his route is just 23 miles long.

Cleaning Up Land Office. Commissioner Leupp was placed in charge of the land office by President Roosevelt to make a general cleaning up. And he has done so. He has made more radical changes in the administration of Indian affairs than were ever before made in the history of the bureau.

And Roosevelt stood behind him at every step. The storm of opposition that arose against Leupp, both from the politicians who had for years regarded the Indian office as their legitimate pork barrel and from the various "Indian betterment" societies of New England who were disappointed in Leupp because they had expected that he would put their funds into operation, did not move Roosevelt. Once, when criticism had been most bitter, he said to Leupp, "If they would bring affidavits to me by the car load supporting a petition to turn you out, I would throw them down into the fire and tell you to go ahead."

If Leupp can get that kind of backing from President Taft, he will stay a while longer.

Secretary Wilson. The only executive department of the government that remains unchanged through the passing of the reins of government from Roosevelt to Taft, is the department of agriculture.

Secretary Wilson, who now holds the record of having served in more cabinets than any other man in the history of the country, is still at his old desk and has announced that he has no changes to make in the personnel of his department.

He has received letters of congratulation from all parts of the country from his admirers who all say that his work has been of lasting benefit to the country.

It is likely that Secretary Wilson will serve at least a year in the Taft cabinet, and possibly during the entire administration.

A CLOSE SHAVE

Many of Them Happening Every Day but Soon Forgotten.

Close shaves would be of more frequent occurrence but for the tender faces of many men, which will not permit of shaving often. Heretofore, nothing has been said in these columns about posium, a new skin discovery, in connection with its use after shaving. Its publicity and sales have been confined almost exclusively to its remarkable properties as an eczema cure; it stops the itching at once and cures the worst cases in a few days. While the application of posium after shaving is one of its minor uses, such as for pimples, the complexion, etc., shavers will find it a revelation, as it does for abrasions, roughness and severe scrapings what it does for all manner of skin difficulties—beals and cures in a few hours. It is the only article possessing real antiseptic and curative value that has ever been exploited for this purpose, and will soothe and tone up the skin as no toilet preparation could possibly do.

Posium can be had for fifty cents at any reliable druggist's, particularly Gilberts, who make a specialty of it. Or the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West 25th street, New York City, will send a trial supply free by mail to any one who will write for it. This is sufficient to show results in 24 hours.

Arthur Frederick Sheldon had been a salesman for fifteen years before he formulated the Science of Salesmanship.

He learned salesmanship by experience. He got his training in the good old "college of hard knocks."

Twenty years ago when he was a country school teacher in a backwoods Michigan village, Sheldon listened to a specialty salesman's selling talk with wide-eyed interest.

It was the first one he had ever heard, and it stirred something deep within him. In about two weeks he had dropped the rod and taken to the road.

He was successful almost from the start, and he earned his way through the University of Michigan Law School by working as a salesman during vacations.

Gave Up Law for Salesmanship. Sheldon did not practice law very long; he had proved himself a real salesman. His former employer wanted him back, and the call to the battle of business was too strong for him to resist. Within a year or two he was made sales manager of the concern. A few years more and he was President and Sales Manager of a publishing house of his own. A little later he had organized two more companies, and was at the head of them.

From the time Mr. Sheldon received his first set of samples it was his ambition to reach the top in his profession.

He realized that in order to do this he must make a thorough study of the subject and reap the benefit of other men's experience as the student of medicine profits by the experience and research of scientific men through many generations.

When he was studying law he found text books to help him in the mastery of the problems, but he looked in vain for books that would help him and other salesmen to become better salesmen.

Here was the great profession of salesmanship, practiced by hundreds of thousands of men, absolutely without a literature of its own!

No Study-Books for Salesmen. A man could not study the principles of salesmanship as he could study the principles of law, engineering or medicine, because no one had ever taken the trouble to formulate and correlate these principles and put them into a definite, usable form.

After long study and observation, Mr. Sheldon's big idea crystallized, and he resolved to undertake the work of formulating the Science of Salesmanship, and of teaching it to others by correspondence.

Most of the people to whom he spoke about his plans for writing and teaching the Science of Salesmanship laughed at it, and said it was impossible. But the Science of Salesmanship was formulated and written, and printed into lesson booklets. After that it was offered for sale—not only offered for sale—it was sold.

In five years this man with the idea has sold more than 36,500 courses in the Science of Salesmanship.

The American business community has paid Sheldon a million and a quarter dollars for his success-building, salary-increasing ideas.

Scientific Basis for Success in Salesmanship—Great Money-Making Opportunities of Salesmen. Trade rests upon confidence. Before a man can sell goods he must inspire confidence.

Confidence rests upon personality. Personality depends upon two great foundation stones: First sterling character; second, good health. These rest upon the bedrock of true education—with emphasis on the word true.

True education consists in developing the positive, desirable qualities of the body, the mind and the soul—the qualities which stand for power and efficiency.

Four factors and only four enter into every sale: The Salesman, the Customer, the Goods and the Sale itself.

The first, the most important thing, therefore, is to make the salesman strong, to give him power. This is done by The Sheldon School system of true education, the course of correspondence study being known as the Science of Successful Salesmanship.

A sale is a mental thing or process—the intelligent co-operation of one mind with another.

A sale is brought about, therefore, not only by technical knowledge alone but by the power of persuasion—the ability to persuade another to your way of thinking.

Sheldon Students in Demand Our students are entitled to the free service of our Employment Division. We do not guarantee to get a man a position, but the fact is that Sheldon graduates are in such demand that very few of them ever ask for any help in securing positions. We are prepared, however, to render assistance to graduates and inasmuch as we have on file as a rule three times as many requests for men as we have men seeking positions, we usually have no difficulty in landing an applicant in a place that is satisfactory to him.

Hogs—Receipts 3,023, for the four days this week 9,417; the market was very slow in opening and weak; prices were generally a dime lower except on pigs; selected corn-fed hogs heavy and medium weight, 160 lbs. and up, $6.75; light shippers 130 to 160 lbs. $6.15; pigs ranged from $5@5.50; rough $5.80 down. Hogs from doubtful sections were almost unsalable, the regular buyers wanting a guarantee with a discount of 3c per if you are ambitious to increase your efficiency, your earnings, your net profits.

In five years, more than 36,500 men, chiefly Salesmen, have adopted the success-producing methods here described—they have studied the Science of Salesmanship. Will you pass up the opportunity of learning about the system that has helped so many others?

Five years ago the Science of Salesmanship was not—it was only an idea in a man's mind.

The man with this big idea was Arthur Frederick Sheldon. His idea and the use he has made of it has earned him a national reputation as a business educator.

Thousands and thousands of good men all over this country give A. F. Sheldon credit for helping them to earn bigger success.

Arthur Frederick Sheldon had been a salesman for fifteen years before he formulated the Science of Salesmanship.

He learned salesmanship by experience. He got his training in the good old "college of hard knocks."

Twenty years ago when he was a country school teacher in a backwoods Michigan village, Sheldon listened to a specialty salesman's selling talk with wide-eyed interest.

A sale is brought about, therefore, not only by technical knowledge alone but by the power of persuasion—the ability to persuade another to your way of thinking.

And the power to persuade is the result of a masterful personality, and of that only. Who does not want a masterful personality?

The Sheldon Course develops such a personality, and it does so by teaching six things, as follows:

1. Character Building—By pointing out the desirable faculties and qualities of the individual which stand for strength and power, and giving definite, specific methods for developing them.

2. Health Building—By teaching how to think right, breathe right, eat right, and exercise right.

3. Character Reading—By teaching the outward signs that indicate character—contour of face, expression, tone of voice, emphasis, gesture, etc.

4. Business Logic—How to analyze a proposition, and from the analysis build a selling talk that will sell.

5. Business Psychology—How to bring about Attention, Interest, Desire and Resolve—the four mental steps in every sale.

6. General Business Topics—"Cost with Relation to Selling Price," "System," "Legal Point in Buying and Selling," "Suggestion," "Self-Education," etc.

Big Money for Good Salesmen Salesmanship is a profession and the highest paid of all professions. There is more money in selling than in anything else—if you can sell. Salesmen virtually set their own salaries, because they are producers; and in proportion as they produce are they paid.

On the salesman—the business man—there are no limits set. As he can produce, in that proportion can he take. Wealth—material power—and all the good things that go with them, await the man who can learn to be a great salesman—the man who can create business.

But this wonderful power to create business—this masterful personality that persuades—from whence does it come? It comes from the man himself from the development of the latent forces within him. All growth is from within outward. All successful men are men of strong personality. And all normal men have the material out of which to develop strong personality.

The Sheldon School has helped 36,500 men develop their power to persuade.

It can help you if you are willing to receive the help. Just mail the coupon today. You place yourself under no obligation. It costs you nothing to investigate.

Tomorrow is tag day.

For the Confederate monument.

For the adornment of Paducah.

But we'll trust the ladies for that.

And Bill Taft remains friendly with both sides.

Perhaps, Joe Cannon's cigar does not tilt at such a rakish angle any more.

How would Joe Cannon, in plaster of paris, do as "Jo-kin, God of things as they used to were?"

Recent congressional caucuses indicate that Republican congressmen are not all sheep; and the Democrats cannot count on all their forces if a bribe is hung up.

It may not have been for the curses of grand orator victims, but the author of "Ta Ra Ra Boom De Ay" died in poverty in Denver.

ABOUT LAWNS.

In the early spring is the best time to make a new lawn, and to repair an old one. Fertilizer should be applied to grass plots which have been established a few years and thin portions should be reseeded. If seed has been sown in the fall for a new lawn, watch carefully this spring, and reseed those places where the first seeding fails to come up.

In making a new lawn, great care should be taken. Prepare the ground as soon as it can be worked. Grade it, smoothing over rough surfaces, making proper level spaces and gentle slopes. If possible the lawn should slope away from the house. The grading should be done to distribute evenly all surface water, avoiding the formation of little runs which might produce washouts.

Enrich the soil with a liberal supply of well rotted manure. This is essential where the soil is lacking in humus, otherwise bone meal or other good fertilizer is useful. The ground should be ploughed or spaded not less than eight inches deep, all stones and similar material removed, lumps broken up and the surface smoothed. Then it is ready for seeding.

Use a good lawn mixture. Four parts Kentucky Bluegrass with one part white clover, sown not less than five bushels to the acre is good. Red top instead of the blue grass, or equal parts of red top and blue grass, produce good results. Use plenty of seed and nothing but pure seed.—NATIONAL COUNCIL OF HORTICULTURE.

OUR FASHION EDITION.

After waiting twenty-four hours to observe how the fashion edition of The Sun was received by the public, we blushing acknowledge that the advertising department of the paper made a hit. Compliments have been pouring in to the management, concerning the metropolitan appearance of the 24-page edition, the correctness of the styles, the excellent taste manifested and the up-to-date display of advertising. No other paper in a city of this size has undertaken such a task, quietly and in the usual run of daily newspaper work. Thousands of papers went to Paducah and all the towns of western Kentucky. The advertisers are well pleased, for they never before had such advantageous advertising of their wares. To distribute those big papers The Sun employed 112 carrier boys, ninety-six in the city and sixteen at other points.

COLLECT THE LICENSES.

The Sun will not waste vain criticism on the general council, because of the license inspector embroglio. We know there never was any question as to the laborer being worthy of his hire until the Hicks-Hubbard contest resulted in favor of Mr. Hubbard. Some men in office are more concerned over securing the plums for the boys of their own political party than for the public welfare; but that is a characteristic of politicians no more prevalent in one party than another. What The Sun really is concerned about is the fact that Paducah already may have lost $5,000 or $6,000 in licenses this year, and the longer the city is without an active license inspector the more money she will lose.

We trust that the general council will act speedily in the matter and will secure a properly paid license inspector, who will attend to his business. Recently druggists have been arrested for selling liquor, who, not only possessed no liquor license, but actually had no license to sell drugs. Since the first of January lawyers have sued the city, who have no license to practice law in Paducah. Many peddlers are plying their trade in the city without licenses, and the transient licenses will never be collected.

THE RECORD IN THE CASE.

Chief Wood, who first recommended that the Standard Oil tanks be removed from the city as a menace, suggested last night that the plant at Tenth and Monroe streets should be made more secure, and even his modified opinion fell to the floor in the board of aldermen. The Sun can understand the position of the aldermen. Citizens chiefly interested in having the menace removed depended on The Sun to fight the battle alone. The Sun accomplished its purpose, when, after a long fight, it forced the issue and compelled the general council to go on record.

The Sun's position as a matter of public policy was correct. The Standard Oil tanks are in the center of the city, the plant caught fire from a passing locomotive, and the plant and surrounding property were saved, not through precautions taken by the oil trust, but through the efforts of the Paducah fire department, whose chief after that experience declared the concern a menace. But public officials do not always act on considerations of public policy. They like the compulsion of a personality, and the Standard Oil's attorneys and employees came here from Louisville and saw these aldermen individually and collectively. The location of the tanks is handy for automobilists, and dealers and users of oil and gasoline were given to understand that the price of oil would go up in company with the inconvenience of an out-of-town location.

Considerable pressure was brought to bear from various directions, and the property owners lost out. The Sun takes some measure of satisfaction in getting the board on record. It is up to the constituents of the aldermen to decide, whether or not the board acted wisely in the matter.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

About Tag Day.

The effort of the United Daughters of the Confederacy to secure funds for the last payment on the monument proposed to be erected in Lang park should have the cordial support of every citizen of Paducah. Deeds of heroism and valor have been perpetuated in bronze or marble from the earliest time, and this beautiful custom alone should be sufficient to induce the patriotic citizen to aid in the laudable enterprise undertaken by the local branch of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. However, it is not in this view of the matter that I desire to appeal to the people of Paducah.

We know from both history and experience that a high standard of citizenship as well as high thinking comes largely from environment. The inanimate object pleasing to the mind is as potential in determining the life of those influenced by its vicinity and view as precept or example. It would be inaccurate to contend that a beautiful city necessarily carries with it a desirable citizenship, but that it influences such citizenship none will deny. We are all interested not alone in the progress of Paducah, but as well in its attractiveness to ourselves and the stranger within our gates. What can more contribute to the permanent adornment of Paducah than the erection of a beautiful monument? Lang park has been exclusively devoted to this purpose and if the statue which has been generously given by the Messrs. Tighman is erected upon a pedestal and base in keeping with the ambitious design of the figure it will be a permanent addition to and advancement of the civic desire for physical adornment of the city. "The grippe left me in a nervous, weakened, run-down condition. Nothing seemed to restore my strength. At last I tried Vinol with the very best results. It built me up and made me feel like a different man, and I am now better and stronger than I have been for years." John Kinney, Indianapolis, Ind.

This is because Vinol is a genuine tonic and body builder which contains peptonate of iron together with every one of the body-building medicinal elements of cod liver oil but without one drop of oil to upset the stomach and retard its work. Vinol acts directly on the stomach, creates a healthy appetite, and enables the digestive organs to obtain the necessary elements from the food eaten to make rich, red blood, healthy flesh and muscle tissue and create strength.

those well able to give will accomplish this purpose.

Tomorrow it is proposed by those having charge of the completion of this monument to inaugurate a "tag day," when each person will have an opportunity to contribute his mite and such contribution will enable us all to feel that we have a personal interest as well as local pride in the beautiful figure which will adorn the handsome little park at the end of Seventeenth street. Found a Spider In His Copy of the Paper.

When Mark Twain was editing the Virginia City Enterprise he received from a superstitious subscriber a letter stating that the writer had found a spider in his copy of the paper and wanted to know whether that was good or bad luck. Mark replied in his "Answers to Correspondents" column:

Old Subscriber—The finding of a spider in your copy of the Enterprise was neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our pages to find out what merchant was not advertising, so that it could spin its web across his door and lead a free and undisturbed existence forever and ever.

And Mark hit the mark. Does it hit you?

TOBACCO NEWS

Louisville, March 19.—The movement in the local leaf tobacco market was fairly good, considering the present conditions of the market. Although offerings amounted to only 307 hogheads, nearly all warehouses had light sales. The burley market continues to hold up on account of the scarcity of the tobacco. The condition and quality of the burley offered showed no change. All grades were in moderate demand, with no material change in prices. The dark tobacco was of fair quality, but in poor condition. There is practically no demand for any grade and prices continued to sag. Rejections yesterday were heavy.

The Central warehouse offered 20 hogheads of new burley, which brought from $7 to $17.75, and 20 hogheads of new dark, which brought from $6.10 to $10.25. The market was unchanged on both burley and dark. There were only five rejections.

At the Farmers' warehouse 15 hogheads of new burley brought from $11.50 to $18.75, and 10 hogheads of new dark brought from $4 to $6.90. The market was unchanged on the burley and very unsatisfactory on the dark. The entire dark offerings were rejected.

At the Main street warehouse 29 hogheads of new burley brought from $12.50 to $21.50 and 18 hogheads of new dark brought from $5.60 to $10.25.

At the Pickett warehouse 31 hogheads of new burley from $11.75 to $18.25 and 17 hogheads of new dark brought from $3.90 to $9.90. The market was fairly good and there were no rejections.

The Kentucky warehouse had up 70 hogheads of new burley, which brought from $9.10 to $20.50 and 12 hogheads of new dark, which brought from $3.35 to $9.10. The market was unchanged and there were only 3 rejections.

The following is the report of offerings on the Louisville market, including all warehouses:

MORE ERRORS ARE FOUND AT CAPITOL

For Dozen Years School Funds Have Been Losing.

Auditor James Discovers Wrong Method of Bookkeeping and Will Remedy It.

ESTIMATED AT HALF MILLION.

Frankfort, Ky., March 19.—More errors and discrepancies that have been allowed to continue in the state government for a dozen years are being discovered constantly by the present administration.

Through a system of bookkeeping inaugurated a dozen years ago, during the administration of former Auditor Sam H. Stone, the school fund, or rather the teachers employed in the common schools of the state during that period, has been overlooked to the benefit of the general expenditure fund in the sum of about $400,000, and the next general assembly will be asked to restore the amount or make it good to the school fund through a perpetual bond for the amount, the interest to be paid yearly to the fund.

That this objectionable system existed was discovered by State Superintendent Crabbe, who will push before the legislature the matter of its recovery. The system of bookkeeping complained of is in this wise:

The statutes provide for the distribution of funds coming into the treasury into the general expenditure, school and sinking funds in a proportion fixed by law. When a county sheriff would settle for taxes collected the money he paid in would be apportioned to the three funds.

How It Happened.

Later, when the sheriff filed with the auditor his list of exonerations, that is the numerous tax lists with which he is charged from the assessors' books, and which through errors or other reasons he has not collected, and is exonerated from them, it has been the custom to deduct from the school and sinking funds their proportionate part of the total exonerations; this being done although they had not previously been credited with this money due, but only with what the sheriff had already paid in in cash in making final settlement.

Thus, the school and sinking funds were made to sacrifice a part of the taxes really apportioned to them to meet a debt in which, according to the state superintendent, they were not responsible to share. Had this system of bookkeeping not prevailed the school fund would have profited several thousands of dollars annually, and which would have gone into the apportionment or per capita for the common schools, enlarging that per capita.

The Teachers Lost.

So, in reality, this amount was yearly withheld from the teachers. Averaging only about fifty thousand dollars a year it would not mean much to the individual teacher, but for the 12 years the system has been in vogue it will pile up in the neighborhood of four hundred thousand dollars.

But there was another feature of this system of bookkeeping which may somewhat reduce the debt to the school fund which has been created. The sheriffs being required to settle in full before a certain date in order to receive their quotas, in many instances, overpay the state on tax collections, and this money has to be returned to them at the time their list of exonerations is filed and accepted.

This money overpaid has, at that time, already been distributed into the general expenditure, school and sinking funds, and, instead of charging these funds up with their proportionate part of the refund, the sheriff overpaying has been paid back directly out of the general expenditure fund alone. The extent of this method, and the amounts due the general fund from the two other funds has not yet been figured out.

The Louisville Collection. Still another feature of the system of bookkeeping complained of, and which will help to even things up, has been in the matter of keeping the records with reference to the taxes collected in the city of Louisville and the county of Jefferson. The sheriff of this county pays all of the funds he collects directly into the treasury, including his commissions for collecting.

When this money has been received in the past it has been credited to the several funds in the regular distribution, and when it came time to receive the sheriff's exonerations and settle with him his commissions have been paid directly out of the general expenditure fund and the school and sinking funds not charged up with their proportionate part of this expense, although they have profited from year to year in the collections made.

Makes Complex Situation. Altogether the question of which is which and what is what with reference to the funds and the system of bookkeeping complained of has the auditing department and school department officials, scratching their heads these days, outdoing the old problem of "How old is Ann?" but the wise heads are working upon it, and before the general assembly meets next winter they will have figured out just how much the school and sinking funds didn't get, that they were entitled to get, and it will be made plain to the legislature how it happened.

The live question about it all is whether the school fund is now entitled to the money or whether it is due to the teachers of the last dozen years in Kentucky who would have gotten it through their per capita had it been apportioned as the state superintendent maintains it should have been distributed from year to year.

State Auditor James does not question the superintendent's position in the matter, and in the future the school and sinking funds will get their all, down to the last penny.

Crafty Beggars.

The statement of the "Association for the Betterment of London" that beggars are on the increase in the metropolis reminds us that a hundred years ago there were so many picturesque beggars in town that J. T. Smith, an antiquary and draughtsman, was enabled to compile and illustrate a book on the subject. This he called "Vagabondiana, or Anecdotes of the Mendicant Wanderers through the Streets of London." At the present day the beggar does not, as a rule, rely on picturesque appearance, but studies the part as thoroughly as any character-actor on the stage.

There is, for instance, the distressed governess who asks the way to a distant suburb, and whose slight attract a bus fare from a sympathetic listener. And a familiar figure in Central London is the well-dressed old lady whose rosy cheeks and grandmotherly appearance disarm suspicion, who, after a trivial question, informs her victim that she has unfortunately lost her purse. She has, indeed, called on her solicitor, but he was out, and she does not know how she is to get back to Richmond—"Thank you so much," and with a courtly bow she vanishes in the crowd.—London Chronicle.

Her—Why on earth do they call him the paying teller?
Him—Because that's his job.
Her—But it isn't. I asked him how much you had in the bank, and please to give it to me, and he wouldn't tell and he wouldn't pay.—Cleveland Leader.

At the Woman's Club.
The open meeting of the Woman's club yesterday afternoon at the club house was under the auspices of the Civics department of the club. Mr. John B. Atkinson, of Earlington, president of the St. Bernard Coal company, was the speaker of the occasion, and delivered an interesting address on "Forestry," from a practical and business point of view. Mr. Atkinson has been remarkably successful in his culture of trees and the coal company has some valuable forests, preserved through his interest and care. He presented the club with some excellent photographs illustrating his forestry work.
Miss Adine Morton, chairman of Civics, presided, and Mrs. Will Gray opened the program with an attractive vocal solo.
Only routine business was transacted at the business session preceding the open meeting.
The club is planning to have Emma Eames for a concert after her visit to Louisville in April. The idea of having Creator's band has been abandoned.
The club urges the general celebration of Arbor Day next Tuesday. Some trees will be planted in front of the Woman's club house but no special ceremonies will be carried out.

The Thursday Night club met at the Palmer House last evening. The program was furnished by Miss Rella Coleman and Mr. E. J. Paxton.

The club will have its next meeting Friday night, April 2, by invitation, at the home of Mrs. Mildred Davis, 620 Kentucky avenue.

Art Department to Present Stereopticon Views.

The Art department of the Woman's club will meet tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the club house. The program will be a discussion of four notable animal painters of the French school as follows:
Constant Troyon—Mrs. John Little
E. Van Marcke—Mrs. L. V. Armen
Rosa Bonheur—Miss Anna Bird
Stewart.

Charles J. Jacque—Mrs. Charles Grassman.
A delightful feature will be the introduction of stereopticon views of the most notable paintings of these artists. This will be an innovation in the Art meetings, which have been charmingly interesting and varied all

WHAT TO EAT IN LENT

Do savory meats allure you in Lent? Then you have never tasted Faust Brand Spaghetti. That is the dish that knowing Lenten observers turn to when meats are tabooed. It is wholly satisfying to palate and stomach and most pleasing in its wide range of table possibilities. A chef has said that true culinary success invariably lies in the frequent serving of Faust Brand Spaghetti, because it never fails on the appetite. When you know it, you will endorse that declaration. It is clean, wholesome, American made by most particular Americans and is sold in five or ten cent packages by almost every grocer—the daintiest economy conceivable. You can secure a book of Faust recipes free on request, if you write

CREATES STRANGE ANIMALS

Cattle Magician, Like Burbank Among Vegetables, Breeds New Varieties.

Loungers in the lobby of the New Grand Hotel sat up and looked yesterday when a tall, thin, wiry man, with fighting whiskers and a sombrero with a rakish tilt, entered from Broadway and registered. The overcoat he wore attracted most attention. It was of brown fur or hair and glistened in the sun that shot through the skylight. The wearer registered "C. J. Jones, Garden City, Kansas."

"That's Buffalo Jones," explained a western man, "and he's got a genuine buffalo on, you bet."

The stranger was Colonel Jones, formerly game warden of Yellowstone Park, and he took strong exception.

"It's a cattalo coat," he exclaimed proudly, "one I raised myself out on the north rim of the Grand Canyon, in Arizona, six hundred miles from nowhere. And it knocks anything I saw from the depot down to here."

"The cattalo's a cross I'm raising from buffalo and common cattle," the colonel explained. "I've been at it now twenty years and got something. They call me the 'animal Burbank,' and I guess I am when it comes to getting hybrids. I've got Persians, Persians, Persians, and the greatest of all combination animals, the Gorsin."

"The Persians," the colonel said, "is a sheep that is half broad-tailed Persian and half Merino. The Persians are half Persian and half Shropshire and the Persians are half Cottswell. The Persians are the best," continued the colonel. "I sent one to President Roosevelt for Thanksgiving, and he said it was the most delicious meat he ever put into his mouth. They all back the wool off the pampered animals of the effete East and foreign parts. They don't need barns that cost more than they are worth to shelter 'em. They are careless about grief. They can come home in the dark, too. I have taken 'em fifty miles from home and they have come straight back in a snowstorm. Common sheep would have been lost within fifty feet. They will get up on rocks and fight wolves when pressed. But I lost 142 lambs through wolves in Arizona last spring so I've moved the cattalo and 1,500 head of the sheep."

"But the greatest glory of the range is my new kind of goat—the Gorsin. It's Go for goat, R for Merino and Sin for Persian. There are quarter strains of Go and R and a half of Sin. It lives on greasewood, sage brush and cactus."—New York Herald.

GREATER THAN NIAGARA.

The Ignazu Waterfalls in South America Leap 213 Feet.

Larger than Niagara is the cataract of the Ignazu Falls, almost at the intersection of the three frontiers of Paraguay, Brazil and the Argentine Republic. The river takes its name from a Spanish word meaning great waters.

About twelve miles from its mouth the bed drops suddenly down a rocky perpendicular cliff some 213 feet high, hence there is a waterfall of that great height. At this spot a delightful little island, beautiful with vegetation, divides the river into two arms so that the total width is about two miles and a half. The Brazilian arm of the river forms a tremendous horseshoe here and plunges into a great chasm with a deafening roar, while the arm on the Argentine side spreads out in a sort of amphitheatre form and finishes with one grand leap a little over 229 feet.

Below the island the two arms unite and flow on into the Paraná river. From the Brazilian bank the spectator, at a height of 280 feet, gazes out over two and a half miles of some of the widest and most fantastic water scenery he can ever hope to see.

Waters stream, seethe, leap, bound froth and foam, "throwing the sweat of their agony high in the air and writhing, twisting, screaming and moaning, bear off to the Paraná." Under the blue vault of the sky this sea foam, of pearls, of iridescent dust bathes the great background in a shower of beauty that all the more adds to the riot of tropical hues already there. When a high wind is blowing the roar of the cataract can be heard nearly twenty miles away. A rough estimate of the horse-power represented by the falls is 14,000,000.

Few sightseers ever catch a glimpse of the great Ignazu Falls, because it takes six days to make the picturesque journey of about 1,250 miles from Buenos Ayres amid the fair fertile plains of Santa Fe and the savage luxuriance of the virgin forest, passing through the territory of the missions and the ruins of Jesuit churches and convents.—Chicago Tribune.

No Rest Day or Night

"I would lay awake for hours without any apparent cause, or dream terrible dreams which would bring on extreme spells of nervousness. After taking Dr. Miles' Nerve and Tonic for awhile I could sleep well, and the nervous spells have left me." MISS ALMA HUG, R. R. No. 4, Canal Dover, Ohio.

Without sleep the nervous system soon becomes a wreck, and the healthful activity of all the organs obstructed. Restful, body-building sleep accompanies the use of Dr. Miles' Nerve and Tonic because it soothes the irritable nerves, and restores nervous energy. CONTEST KILLED BY LEGISLATURE

By Par'y Vo'e Majority Report is Adopted.

Deep Waterway Bill Introduced in Illinois House Creates Commission.

POWER OVER ALL THE WATERS

Springfield, Ill., March 19.—The general assembly sitting in joint session killed the Stevenson-Deneen contest by tabling the report of the minority that the ballots for governor should be recounted and adopting the report of the majority of the contest committee that the petition for a contest should be dismissed. The matter was disposed of by a purely party vote.

The vote on tabling the minority report was 119 to 65 and on adopting the majority report 120 to 64.

General A. Cooke, of Aledo, counsel for General Stevenson, declared in his argument that the Democrats had a prima facie case and also held that under the law the legislature had no other recourse than to order a recount of the ballots, citing the case of McElvain versus Caldwell from Sangamon county, a legislative contest, in which the supreme court had so held.

Replying to the objection of the Republicans that the recount would cost the state a large sum of money, he said he stood ready to give a certified check and that the Democrats would pay the expense of having the ballot boxes brought to Springfield and having the recount made.

Senator Orville F. Berry, of Carthage, counsel for Deneen, replying to Mr. Cooke, argued that the Democrats had failed to show the committee where fraud had been committed or a miscount of the ballots made.

Deep Waterway.
A deep waterway bill was introduced in the house by Mr. Smekal, of Chicago, which does away with the Illinois and Michigan canal and transfers their powers and duties without further emolument, to the deep waterway commission of Illinois, which is created by the bill. It also merges the Illinois and Michigan canal into the deep waterway project, and that when this canal shall no longer be required for canal purposes on account of a link in the deep waterway the commission shall have power to dispose of it and turn the proceeds over to the state.

The bill provides for a commission of five and the construction of a deep waterway from Lockport to Ulica and the issuing of $20,000,000 in bonds. The channel shall be 24 feet deep and 400 feet wide. Through Joliet it shall be constructed between masonry walls and have a depth of 14 feet and a width of 200 feet.

No work shall be done by the commission until a plan of co-operation shall be agreed upon and authorized by the United States authorities without further authority from the general assembly, but the acquisition of the river rights and property shall not be delayed. The commission shall have power over all navigable streams in the state and power to sell water power to the highest bidder. The dam across the Illinois river at Marseilles, in LaSalle county, shall be removed.

OWNERS OF BIG RAILROADS

Concealment of Their Identities in Dummy Holders of Stocks.

Rarely has a publication of greater interest appeared than the list printed by the Wall Street Journal of the heaviest stockholders in some of the chief American railroad systems. Correcting the list by a diagram of what it does not directly reveal, it shows to what an extent railroad control is concentrated in few hands. The $116,000,000 of Union and Southern Pacific stocks standing in the name of E. H. Harriman represent the control of these companies through the Oregon Short Line, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., hold, presumably in trust also, $65,000,000 of the companies. Victor Morawetz has just testified how Harriman gained a large standing in Atchison. His "party" is known to hold some $14,000,000 of New York Central, which stand in the books to dummy holders. Mr. Morgan's large Erie holdings are also credited to dummies. The Atlantic Coast Line holds $30,000,000 of the Louisville and Nashville; the Pennsylvania has still larger holdings in the Baltimore and Ohio and the Norfolk and Western.

Hetty Green and John D. Rockefeller do not appear in the list of large owners, though either may hold through dummies. The "Standard Oil group's" stock ownership in many lines is heavy. C. V. Harkness, William Rockefeller and Jesup & Lamont appearing as the largest owners. The holdings of insurance and express companies are very heavy. The tendency of the younger Vanderbilts to turn stock-holdings into bonds and abandon railway management for coaching and other useful pursuits is strongly reflected in these lists. Excepting W. K. Vanderbilt's $10,000,000 of stocks in the New York Central, all the Vanderbilt holdings combined do not equal John R. Kennedy's in Northern Pacific and Great Northern alone. Another interesting point in the

Mild Laxative for Baby Free

The child of today is the parent of the future, and whether it grows up healthy and strong, or puny and weak, depends upon the intelligence of its parents, for most children are born into the world healthy, but thousands become future weaklings between birth and the age of ten, when the parents are still in greatest control.

The prime cause of trouble is in the stomach. A baby that is digesting its food seldom cries and always looks cheerful; the little child whose stomach is good romps and plays and never whines; the growing child learns well at school and is eager for fun if its head is clear and its stomach light, and that means if it has no constipation.

The best and safest way to cure any irregularity of the stomach and bowels in children is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a liquid laxative wonderful in its effect as Mrs. John W. Dunham, Apple Creek, O., Mrs. H. L. Cullum, Plainville, Ind., and numerous others can testify who give it to their children with extraordinary results.

A bottle only costs 50 cents or $1 according to the size you want, and even one 50-cent bottle will do a wonderful amount of good in a family. It can be given to any member of the family in constipation, sour stomach, indigestion, torpid liver, dyspepsia, heartburn, sick headache and similar digestive troubles. It never gripes or strangles like pills, laxative salts and powders, which should not be given to children, women or old folks.

If you have a child or other member of the family who needs, but has never used this grand laxative tonic, send your name and address to the doctor and a free trial bottle will be sent to your home. In this way you can find out what it will do without personal expense.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 507 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

It is the extent to which foreign investors still hold American railway stocks—which is, of course, still more true of bonds. Beginning with the Deutsche Bank's $18,683,706 stock in Baltimore and Ohio, a list of twenty or more foreign holders, some of whose names are quite unknown to the American public, might be quickly made up, to whom in London, Berlin and Amsterdam houses dividends are yearly sent upon $125,000,000.—New York World.

PEOPLE PLEASED WITH INTERURBAN

Probably Will Subscribe $50,000 First Mortgage Bonds.

Paducah Must Do This Much, the Money to Be Paid After Month's Operation.

AND CAIRO WILL DO LIKEWISE

Paducah through the Commercial club has agreed to raise $50,000, to be paid 30 days after the Cairo interurban railroad is in operation, as her part of raising the local subscription of $100,000 for the building of the interurban line by the Kentucky and Ohio River Interurban Railroad company, and it is intended for Cairo and the citizens between the two cities to raise the other half of the money.

The promoters of the railroad met yesterday afternoon with the public improvement committee of the Commercial club, together with representatives of towns on the line of the proposed interurban.

The proposition of the company was examined closely, and all of the members considered it a safe proposition. Mr. J. J. Freundlich, who is the general manager of the company, was present and stated that arrangements had been made with the London Trust company, of Chicago, to finance the road, and he produced the contract, which before effective provides that $100,000 shall be raised by local subscription as an evidence of good faith.

The $100,000 is not asked to be donated, but the contributors will be given 6 per cent first mortgage bonds, and in case the railroad is a failure the mortgage will be safe, as they will secure the first bid on the property, which, it is estimated, would be worth nearly a million dollars, as the estimated cost of the road will be $700,000. That the money is not asked for until after the road has had cars running for 30 days struck the members of the committee as fair, and the committee gave the proposition its approval. However, the contract with the trust company will expire April 26, and the first mortgage bonds will have to be subscribed before then. Work on the proposed interurban has never ceased for six years, and it is the intention to build the road this time or give up the effort.

Promoter's Statement.
Mr. Freundlich made a short statement about the road, in which he said two surveys had been made, one practically parallel with the Illinois Central route and another covering the small towns now without any means of rapid transportation. He said that connections would be made with all the railroads at Cairo, and that the Mobile & Ohio railroad officials had made a verbal agreement that they would handle all freight for the interurban. Another intention is to run a spur from the main line near the McCracken-Ballars county line to Joppa, Ill., where connections would be made with the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad. Arrangements have been made for the running of a sleeper from Paducah to Chicago over the road.

Those present at the meeting yesterday were: W. H. Beach, of La Center; W. F. Parry, of Bandana; T. H. Marshall, of Woodville; J. J. Freundlich, James Utterbank, E. W. Whittemore, Ben Wellie and E. B. Graves. It is proposed for Cairo to raise the bulk of the remaining stock and Mr. Freundlich will hold a meeting with the city officials next week for the purpose of placing it before them.

Citizens along the proposed line will be expected to contribute. Mr. Beach said he thought $100,000 would be subscribed at La Center, and that it would be easy to raise several thousand dollars from citizens residing along the route.

The Commercial club is holding another meeting this afternoon for the discussion of a second interurban to Mayfield, and the question of raising the mortgage bonds will be brought up by the public improvement committee.

It Does the Business.
Mr. E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Maine, says of Bucklen's Arnica Salve: "It does the business; I have used it for piles and it cured them. Used it for chapped hands and it cured them. Applied it to an old sore and it healed it without leaving a scar behind." 25c at all druggists.

Spread of Christianity in Japan.

Great spiritual awakening has begun in Japan. The young men, especially students, have begun to yearn after spiritual food. The inherited prejudice against Christianity has almost passed away. The young students, both male and female, attend certain churches in crowds. Business men are beginning to realize that those who have a genuine faith are more reliable than infidels and superstitious men. Christianity has already taken its root in the intellectual circle of Japan. If it could succeed in taking its root in the business world, it would become the strongest moral power in Japan.—Rev. Danjo Ebina, in Leslie's Weekly.

WOMAN'S NIGHTMARE

No woman can be happy without children; it is her nature to love them as much so as it is the beautiful and pure. There is no necessity for the reproduction of life to be either very painful or dangerous. The use of Mother's Friend prepares the system for the coming event, and it is passed without any danger. MOTHER'S FRIEND

Home, Sweet Home.
Senator McLaurin, of Mississippi, tells a story to illustrate his conception of the difference between the treatment of the colored brother up north and down south. A Mississippi dandy went up to Kansas and shortly got stranded. He begged for food and shelter from door to door and got neither. Finally he wandered back to Mississippi and knocked. "What are you doing at my front door, you black rascal?" "I want something to eat." "Well, go around to the back door and get it then, you rascal," said the white man.

Then the old negro, remembering the polite way in which his requests had been refused in Kansas, threw up his hands and exclaimed: "Bless Gawd, Ise among my own people at last."—Washington Star.

Tobacco is unloaded in large, flat baskets, each grade to itself, weighed and receipt given owner, showing number of draft and pounds thereof. A corresponding ticket is placed on each pile. The highest bid is written on ticket and, should owner accept same, by presenting at office receipt previously given, the cash is handed over.

Should the bid offered not be satisfactory, the tobacco can be offered the next day or at any other time thereafter.

It costs absolutely nothing to offer your tobacco unless bid is accepted, in which case we charge 15 cents per hundred pounds and 2 cents on the dollar.

The greatest demand among manufacturers and dealers is for loose tobacco and, since it will bring more money offered loose, why go to the expense of having prized, stored, insured, inspected and looked after?

You will get more money for your tobacco when offered to the highest bidder in open competition with twenty-five buyers trying to buy than when you expect or require one buyer to buy millions of pounds without competition at a round price.

CHAPTER XXII.

LOBBYISTS—AND ONE IN PARTICULAR.

WASHINGTON has known many lobbyists in its time, and it keeps on knowing them. The striking increase in legislation that aims to restrict unlawful or improper practices in business, the awakening of the public conscience,
has caused a greater demand than ever
for influence at the national capital, for these restrictive measures must be either killed or emasculated to a point of uselessness by that process which is the salvation of many a corrupt man-ipulator, the process of amendment.

Predatory corporations, predatory
business associations of different sorts and predatory individuals have their representatives on the field at Washington to ward off attack by any means that brains can devise or money provide and to obtain desired favors at a cost that will leave a profitable balance
for the purchaser. When commercial tricksters, believing in the lobbyist's
favorite maxim, "The People Forget,"
feel that they have outlived the latest reform movement and see "the good old days" returning, the professional politicians introduce a few reform measures themselves, most stringent measures. They push these measures ahead until somebody pays up, then the bills die. The lobbyist knows all about these "strike" bills, but does not frown on them. No, no. Perhaps he helped draw up one of these bills so that, with the aid of his inside knowledge of his employer's business, the measure is made to give a greater scare than might otherwise have resulted. The bigger the scare the bigger the fund advanced, of course, for the lobbyist to handle. All this also helps the lobbyist to secure and retain employment.

Not all the Washington lobbyists are outside of congress. The senator or congressman has unequal facilities
for oiling or blocking the course of a bill. Sometimes he confines himself to the interests of his own clients, whoever they may be. But sometimes he notifies a bill that promises to be a pretty good thing for the client of some other member if it passes. Then he begins to fight this bill so actively
that he must be "let in on the deal" himself. This is very annoying to the other member, but the experience is worth something. He has learned the value of observing other people's legislation.

The outsiders (members of the "third
house") and the insiders have a bond
of fellowship uniting them; they exchange information as to what members of both houses are "reached,"
how they can be "got to" (through whom) and how much they want.
This information is carefully tabulated, and now prices for passing or defeating legislation can be quoted to interested parties just as the price of a carload of pork can be ascertained at a given time and place. Perhaps it is this system that leads grafting members of short experience to wonder how knowledge of their taking what is termed "the sugar" got out and became known to their associates. Did they not have pledge of absolute secrecy? Yes, but the purchaser never intended to keep the information from those of his kind. Lobbyists must be honest with each other.

Not all lobbyists are men. The woman legislative agent has been known to occupy an important position in Washington, and she does yet. She is hard to detect and frequently more unprincipled than the men similarly engaged, if that is possible.

A woman with a measure of social standing would naturally prove the most successful as a lobbyist in Washington because of the opportunities
her position would afford her to meet people of prominence. And just such a one was Mrs. Cora Spangler, with whom the Langdons had been thrown in contact quite intimately since their arrival at the capital.

Pretty and vivacious, Mrs. Spangler bore her thirty-seven years with uncommon ease, aided possibly by the makeup box and the modiste. Her dresses and receptions were attended by people of acknowledged standing.
Always a lavish spender of money,
this was explained as possible because of a fortune left her by her late husband, Congressman Spangler of Pennsylvania. That this "fortune" had consisted largely of stock and bonds
of a bankrupt copper smelting plant
in Michigan remained unknown, except to her husband's family, one or two of her own relatives and Senator Peabody, who, coming from Pennsylv-
vania, had known her husband intimately.

He it was who had suggested to her
that she might make money easily by cultivating the acquaintance of the new members of both houses and their families, exerting her influence in various "perfectly legitimate ways," he argued, for or against matters pending
in legislation. The Standard Steel corporation kept Mrs. Spangler well supplied with funds deposited monthly
to her account in a Philadelphia trust company.

She avoided suspicion by reason of her sex and her many acquaintances
of undisputed rank. Senator Peabody was never invited to her home, had never attended a single dinner, reception or musicale she had given, all of which was a part of the policy they had mutually agreed on to denude any suspicion that might some time arise
as to her relation to the Standard Steel company. It was well known that Peabody had been put into the senate by Standard Steel to look after its interests.

He had found Mrs. Spangler chiefly valuable thus far as a source of information regarding the members of congress, which she obtained largely from their families. He was thus able to gain an idea of their associations,
their particular interests and their aspirations in coming to congress, which proved of much use to him in forming and promoting acquaintances, all for the glory of Standard Steel.

Senator Holcomb of Missouri told
Mrs. Spangler at an afternoon tea casualty that he was going to vote against the ship subsidy bill. Senator

Peabody was informed of this
two hours later
by a note written in cipher.
When the vote
was called two days later Senator Holcomb voted for the bill.
Standard Steel
supplies steel for ocean liners, and
their building
must be encouraged.

Mrs. Windsor,
wife of Congressman Windsor of Indiana, remarked to Mrs. Span-
gler at a reception that she was
"so glad Jimmie
is going to do something for us women
at last. He says we ought to get silk
gowns over so much
cheaper next year."

Jimmie Windsor was a member of the house committee on ways and means
and was busily engaged in the matter of tariff revision. When President Anders of the Federal Silk company
heard from Senator Peabody that Windsor favored lowering the tariff on silk a way was found to convince the congressman that the American silk industry was a weakening and many investors would suffer if the foreign goods should be admitted any cheaper than at present.

President Anders was willing to do Senator Peabody a favor some day.
Sometimes Cora Spangler shuddered
at the thought of what would become
of her if she should make some slip,
some fatal error, and be discovered to
her friends as a betrayer of confidences
for money. A secret agent of Standard Steel! What a newspaper story
she would make—"Society Favorite a Paid Spy;" "Woman Lobbyist Flees
Capital." The sensational headlines flitted through her mind. Then she would grit her teeth and dig her fingernails into her palms. She had to have money to carry on the life she loved so well. She must continue as she had begun. After all, she reasoned, nothing definite could ever be proved regarding the past. Let the future care for itself. She might marry again and free herself from this mode of life,
who knows?

So reasoned Cora Spangler for the hundredth time during the last two years as she sat in her boudoir at her home. She had spent part of the day with Carolina and Hope Langdon
and in the evening had attended the musicale
at their house.
But she had been forced to leave early owing
to a severe
headache. Now,
after an hour or
two of rest, she felt better and
was about to retire. Suddenly
the telephone
bell rang at a writing table
near a window.
She had two tele-
phones, one in the lower hall and one
in her boudoir—to save walking downstairs unnecessarily, she explained to her woman friends. But the number of this upstairs telephone was not in the public book. It had a private number, known to but two people except herself.

Taking down the receiver, she asked
in low voice, "Hello, who is it?"
"Mr. Wall."
It was the name Senator Peabody
used in telephone conversation with her.
"Yes, congressman," she responded.
She always said "Yes, congressman," in reply to "Mr. Wall," a prearranged manner of indicating that he was talking to the desired person.
"I will need your services to-morrow," Senator Peabody said, "on a very important matter, I am afraid.
Decline any engagements and hold
yourself in readiness."
"Yes."

"I may send my friend S. to explain things at 10:30 in the morning. If he does not arrive at that time, telephone me at 10:35 sharp. You know where Understand? I have put off going to Philadelphia tonight."
"Yes."
"That is all; goodbye."
"Something very important," she murmured nervously as she turned from the desk.
"I don't like his tone of voice; sounds
strained and worried—something unusual for the cold, dainty gentleman from Pennsylvania. And his friend S., of course, means Stevens! Great heavens, then Stevens must now have knowledge of my—my—business!"
She calmed herself and straightened
a dainty, slender finger against her cheek.

"It must be something about that naval base bill, I'm sure. That's been worrying Peabody all season," she mused as she pressed a button to summon her maid.

ters, nothing could be worse, and
"Nitchewo" is his panacea for all evils.
And yet the Russian moujik is really a fine fellow. Ordinarily, M. P. Kennard tells us in his book, "The Russian Peasant," he is a splendid, well built man, large limbed, large headed and healthy. He is equally unaffected by 20 degrees of frost or twenty glasses of vodka. He is clothed in unadorned sheepskins and carries in winter more clothes than the average Englishman
could stand up in.

He is unappealingly stupid, however,
and his dream of happiness is to gorge,
to sleep as much as possible through the winter and dance and sing in the summer. But the stranger's first objection to the moujik is that he smells
—not because he does not wash himself. As a matter of fact, in every village there are public baths—bani—
and the peasants wash themselves
there unflinchingly every Saturday in order to be allowed to go to church on Sunday, for the Orthodox church enjoys cleanliness.

The Russian peasant is always poor and generally in debt. He plows the land in the same way that his father
plowed it and gets as little for his labor. His main worry in life is how to pay the governor's taxes. If he says he cannot pay he is dogged, or perhaps he will sell part of his next year's power of work—i. e., work for nothing
for several months—to raise a loan,
and of course he is worse off than ever
the following year.

On Christmas night at dusk the marriageable village girls go out into the streets and meet their young men, and one says, "What is your name?" The young man answers "Poma," and she replies, "My husband's name is Poma."
Some days later at the girl's home relations are gathered together. There comes a knock at the door. The star-osta and the young man enter, carrying loaves of bread. The starosta says something like this:

"We are German people, come from Turkey. We are hunters, good fellows. There was a time once in our country when we saw strange footprints in the snow, and my friend the prince here saw them, and we thought they might be a fox's or marten's footprints or it might be those of a beautiful girl. We hunters, we good fellows, are determined not to rest till we have found the animal. We have been in all cities from Germany to Turkey and have sought for this fox,
this marten or this princess, and at last
we have seen the same strange footprints in the snow again, here by your court. And we have come in. Come,
let us take her, the beautiful princess,
for we see her in front of us, or can it be that you would keep her till she grows a little older?"
Thus does the moujik ask for a wife.

A Cure for Misery.

"I have found a cure for the misery
malaria poison produces," says R. M.
James, of Louisville, S. C. "It's called Electric Bitters, and comes in 50 cent bottles. It breaks up a case of chills
or a bilious attack in almost no time;
and it puts yellow jaundice clean out of commission." This great tonic medicine and blood purifier gives quick relief in all stomach, liver and kidney complaints and the misery of sick headache. Sold under guarantee at all druggists.

The Quipu.

The quipu, upon which the ancient Peruvians kept their records and accounts, consisted of a thick main cord,
with smaller cords tied to it at certain distances. Upon these smaller cords
the knots were tied by means of which the reckoning was kept. The length of the main rope varied from a foot to several yards. The cords were of various colors, each with its own proper meaning—as red for soldiers, yellow
for gold, white for silver, green for corn, and so on. The reckoning seems to have been largely regulated by the distances of the knots from the main cord and the sequence of the branches.

Concerning Names.

A man and father and Republican executive committeeman of Warren county, New Jersey, "in this boasted twentieth century," dares to call his innocent baby "George Washington William Howard Taft" So and So.
This particular instance of the cruelty
of the parents may serve to recall to the minds of the legislators and other philanthropists the propositions first uttered, we believe by the Sun: 1.
No child should be named, except provisionally and for convenience, until he is 21. Then let him name himself. 2. Children named under the present unjust system, who, on coming to voting age, disapprove the name given them, shall have the right to cancel them and select others without further notice. 3. Parents should be named by their children, not children by their parents.

In confidence and pride we submit
this irrefragable theory of nomenclature to the world of sociologists, to all children named after politicians
or otherwise infelicitously or unmel-odiously, and to such parents as have arrived at the age of discretion.—

MANN ACQUITTED; DRAMATIC SCENE

Chicago Man Tried For Murder Thanks Jury.

Proved Alibi Successfully and Excitement in Court Room Bordered On Hysterics.

WOMEN KISS HIS ATTORNEY

Chicago, March 19. — Dramatic scenes accompanied the acquittal here of Luman C. Mann, charged with the murder of Mrs. Frances Gilmore Thompson last June. The evidence against Mann was circumstantial. His defense was an alibi. The jury took but one ballot. With the words "not guilty" from the lips of the foreman the scene in the court became one of excitement bordering on hysteria.

"I have been a bad man, but a few years from now you will hear of me as an honest citizen," Mann said in thanking the jury. Tears were rolling down his cheeks and his sobs made it almost impossible for him to speak. "We knew you were innocent," said one of the jurors, unabashed tears flowing freely. Other jurors furtively applied handkerchiefs to their eyes as Mann returned to his mother throwing his arms about her neck and crying like a child.

Women who had been in constant attendance at the trial, weeping and all trying to talk at once, made a rush for Attorney Erbstein, who de-

A MIGHTY ARMY OF CLEAN HEADED AMERICANS.

Thousands and thousands of heads that were dandruff filthy a year ago are scrupulously clean today.

This means that millions, yes billions, of dandruff germs have been annihilated, and cannot continue their pernicious work of hair destruction. But best of all it means that at last there is a cure, an absolutely certain cure for dandruff, one so prompt in its action and so marvelous in its results, that many are skeptical when told of what it has done.

Parisian Sage is the name of the quick-acting hair restorer that is responsible for a mighty army of clean headed Americans, and its action is so certain that Gilbert's drug store, the agent in Paducah, guarantees it to stop falling hair, itching scalp and cure dandruff in two weeks, or money back.

Parisian Sage makes women's hair soft, lustrous and luxuriant in a few days.

The price of this delightful money-back hair dressing is only 50 cents a bottle at Gilbert's drug store or direct, all charges prepaid, by Groux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

fended Mann. Several of them tried to kiss him, and it is said that some of them succeeded before he made his escape. Meanwhile the balliff was shouting for order, to which nobody paid any attention.

Orville C. Mann, the acquitted man's father, a wealthy and prominent resident of the suburb, Oak Park, was the only one of the defendant's family not present. Worn out by the strain of the trial and suspense, he was compelled to seek medical aid and remained at home.

Under cross examination the defendant was compelled to relate a story at which his mother hung her head. He told of drinking bouts during one of which he spent $1,000 in a single night, of gambling and of low associates.

Roosevelt on Judicial Reform.

A year after leaving Harvard I ran for the New York legislature and was elected. In the legislature I was soon brought in contact with various advocates of what is known as labor legislation; and I eyed both them and their schemes with great distrust. When in Harvard I had studied what were then considered the orthodox political economists; and after leaving college and other men whom I met were for the most part lawyers, or business men of wealth who quite sincerely took the ordinary wealthy business man's view of labor matters. Moreover, in the legislature, most of the men who professed a loud and ardent interest in the welfare of the laboring man were exceedingly unattractive persons, who, to put it mildly, did not impress one as being either sincere or honest. Many of the labor bills which were introduced were foolish, and were urged in a transparently demagogic spirit, and the labor leaders who came to Albany to argue for them eyed me with suspicion which I cordially reciprocated. Most of them, I am now inclined to think, were by no means of the best type; and I, in my turn, because of my surroundings both in the classroom and in the social and business world, was alert to pick flaws in anything concerning a labor union, and possessed a self-satisfied narrowness in approaching all labor questions which must have been highly exasperating to my opponents.

My college training had biased me against all governmental schemes for the betterment of the social and industrial conditions of laborers, or for the control of corporations. The education which I afterwards received in these matters, and which completely changed my views, was gained partly from books, but more from actual experience in governmental work, and from a constantly widening and more intimate knowledge of the real life of different bodies of our people. My first step in this education began when, after leaving college, I joined, and endeavored to make myself count in, my local Republican association—instead of joining some parlor gathering of well-meaning dilettante reformers.

His First Lesson.

The labor unions had been demanding legislation to stop the manufacture of cigars in tenement houses, and during my second term in Albany the assembly appointed a committee to look into the conditions. My belief is that the committee was appointed with the hope that it would not recommend any change in the law, and that I was put on because, on account of my education and social surroundings, it was supposed that I would naturally take this view; and I certainly expected to take it. One of my colleagues was a then well known sporting Tammany politician who afterwards abandoned politics and became a professional racing man. There were many points on which our theories of ethics were as far asunder as the poles; but I soon discovered that there were other matters and some of these of fundamental importance, on which we thought alike and our association ended in mutual respect and good will. Soon after the investigation started I told him that I was a good deal shocked at what I had seen, and was wavering in my preconceived opinions. He answered by saying that, as far as he personally was concerned, he was pledged in advance against recommending any change in the law, but that he had known that I was a free agent and had all along believed that when I looked into the matter for myself I would be a very ardent advocate of the change. He was quite right in his supposition. The investigation convinced me beyond shadow of doubt that to permit the manufacture of cigars in tenement houses, which necessarily meant their manufacture not only by the men but by the women and children of the poverty-stricken immigrants who were engaged in the task, was an evil thing from every standpoint, social, industrial and hygienic. I accordingly cordially supported the bill; which made a large number of my friends regard me as erratic and dangerous, or else as influenced by demagogic motives. The bill was badly drawn. No lawyer of any note had been consulted; there was no one to pay such a lawyer. When it passed both houses the then governor, Grover Cleveland, appointed a day for a hearing, and the labor unions asked me to appear. I appeared, and several good counsel being against us, while on our side there were, besides myself, merely five or six representatives of the cigar makers' union, all of them foreigners—battered-looking men, with whom the battle of life had evidently gone hard. As this was long before I had established any real relations with, or had any real understanding of, the unions, while they felt that I was a crank, influenced by incomprehensible motives, we worked on entirely independent lines, neither side feeling altogether comfortable in the relationship. However, the main argument—and indeed almost the only argument—for the bill was made by me. I answered various questions which the governor put to me. He afterwards called me up and told me that, though he felt very doubtful yet that, in view of the state of facts I had set forth, he would sign the bill.

It Was Contested.

The employers and tenement house owners immediately contested the constitutionality of the act, and after the usual long delays the highest state court finally pronounced the measure invalid. The cigar makers were poor, and the great majority of them were ignorant foreigners. They had no money and no special influence even in the world of labor. They could not employ counsel either to draw their bill well in the first place, or to present their case to the best advantage when it was before the courts. The great mass of respectable, well-to-do people were nervously sensitive to attacks on what they considered the rights of property, and regarded as an infringement on these rights any effort to correct the abuses of property. The judges, as was quite natural, shared the feelings of the classes from which they were drawn, and with which they associated. The decision went against the dwellers in the tenement houses. Anything like an effective reformation of tenement house conditions was thereby deferred for fifteen or twenty years, and during that time men, women and children were guaranteed their "liberty" to fester in sordid misery.

The judges invoked a technical construction of the constitution in order to declare invalid a law deliberately enacted by the legislative body; a law which I firmly believe it was entirely in the province of the legislature to pass. Every consideration of public morals and public weal demanded that that it should be declared valid. At the present day few courts in any state of the Union would make such a decision as was then made; yet the judges making it were learned in the law, and according to their own lights were upright and honorable men. But they were men without any sympathetic understanding or knowledge of the needs and conditions of life of the great mass of their fellow-countrymen. If those judges had understood "how the other half lived," if they had possessed a working knowledge of tenement houses and factories, of tenement house dwellers and factory workers, and of the lives that were lived where the tenement house and the factory were one and the same, I am absolutely certain that they would have rendered no such decision as was rendered. They knew the life of the well-to-do, both the business life and the home life. They knew nothing of the lives of those who were not well-to-do. It was this lack of knowledge and the attendant lack of sympathetic understanding that formed the real barrier between the judges and a wise judgment.

Better Judges.

My reason for relating this anecdote is because from that day to this

I have felt an ever-growing conviction of the need of having on benches men who, in addition to being learned in the law and upright, shall possess a broad understanding of and sympathy with their countrymen as a whole, so that the questions of humanity and of social justice shall not be considered by them as wholly inferior to the defense of vested rights or the upholding of liberty of contract. A hair-splitting refinement in decisions may result in as much damage to the community as if the judges were actually corrupt. Freedom of contract should be permitted only so far as is compatible with the best interests of the community, and when vested rights become entrenched wrongs, they should be overturned. I do not for one moment believe that the mass of our judges are actuated by any but worthy motives. Nevertheless, I do believe that they often signally fail to protect the laboring man and the laboring man's widow and children in their just rights, and that heartbreaking and pitiful injustice too often results therefrom; and this primarily because our judges lack either the opportunity or the power thoroughly to understand the working man's and working woman's position and vital needs.

There are many judges, from the supreme court of the nation down to the district bench in each state, who do possess this sympathy and understanding, in addition to uprightness, trained ability, broad intelligence, and entire fearlessness in the face of wrong, whether committed by capitalist or by laboring men; such judges are the best and most useful of all of our public servants; public opinion should uphold them as clearly as it condemns their short-sighted and narrow-minded brethren.
